I am very pleased to have my work published as the inaugural volume of the Saffron Korean Linguistics Series. I would like to thank Sajid Rizvi, the managing editor of Saffron Books, for agreeing to undertake the publication of the series.

The completion of this book has been made possible through the generous help of many people. I should like to thank, first of all, my colleague and friend, Dr Jae Jung Song, who has promoted my interest in functional-typological linguistics over the past years. Dr Song kindly read the entire manuscript and offered valuable comments and suggestions.

My sincere thanks also go to Professor William O'Grady, who read an earlier version of this book and provided valuable comments and criticism. I would also like to thank Professors Bernard Comrie and Masayoshi Shibatani, who read parts of earlier versions of this work and provided constructive feedback and bibliographical information. Largely unbeknownst to them, their comments contributed greatly to my undertaking this project.

Many of the ideas contained in the present book have developed from my doctoral dissertation, which was submitted to the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS) at the University of London in 1994. I would like to express my gratitude to my supervisor, Professor Theodora Bynon, and to my examiners, Dr David Bennett and Dr Keith Brown for their helpful comments.

Over the past few years I have published parts of earlier versions of this book in various journals, and I am greatly indebted to the various anonymous referees who read and commented on them. In particular, I would like to express my gratitude to the reviewers of the Philological Society for their useful comments and criticism.

My special thanks go to all my colleagues and friends who have helped me in various ways during my academic life since I chose to major in Linguistics whether by providing advice, discussion, or sharing their valuable time with me, and to those who gave me support and encouragement. They include: Hyun-kee Ahn, Dong-ju Choi, Ki-yong Choi, Sung-ho Choi, Do Sang Chung, Yong Heo, Romuald Huszcza, Jongho Jun, Young-Chul Jun, Je-moon Jung, Beom-mo Kang, Hyun-Kwon Kim, Ju-won Kim, Seon-cheol Kim, Ross

King, Dong-ho Ko, Bon-Kwan Ku, Jae-il Kwon, Ho-Young Lee, Hyo Sang Lee, Kee-kap Lee, Sang-chaul Lee, Jungsoo Mok, Seungho Nam, Chul-Woo Park, Hansang Park, Sung-hyun Park, Werner Sasse, Chung-kon Shi, Hyo-Pil Shin, Jaemog Song, Nam Sun Song, Soonjo Woo, Hong-Shik Yi, and Gyudong Yurn.

I am indebted to many scholars who shared their valuable time and knowledge with me while conducting research on Korean linguistics or literature at the Centre of Korean Studies at SOAS over the past few years. They include: Professors Kwang-soo Sung, Dae-Haeng Kim, Chun-sup Kim, Jeon-seung Choi, Hyo-myung Park, Hwan-muk Lee, Mi-Jung Choi, Soon-pyo Moon, Young-Jae Choo, Hyo-sup Song, Jin-han Song, Chung-kon Shi, Hye-won Lee, Jong-seon Hong, Hee-Im Pae, and Yun-duk Bae.

I would like to express my gratitude to my former teachers who gave me invaluable guidance and advice during my studies. They include: Professors Ung Heo, Suk Jin Chang, Baeg-In Seong, Ho-min Sohn, Yong-Kun Ko, Hyun-Bok Lee, Cha-gyun Gim, Iksop Lee, Chungmin Lee, Yang-soo Moon, Chae-song Hong, Sang-Oak Lee and the late Professor Bang-han Kim.

I am grateful to my colleagues at the Centre of Korean Studies at SOAS for their warm friendship and help. I would also like to thank Fumi Ide and Jieun Kiaer for their help in preparing the index.

Last but not the least, I extend my gratitude to the Korea Foundation, which supported my work with a research grant.
